

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A painting container having a first cavity adapted to receive a painting utensil and a second cavity adapted to receive liquid to be applied to a surface with the painting utensil. A handle extends in the direction of the cavity is attached to the container that permits a user to grasp the handle while using the container for applying liquid to a surface. The handle is also dimensioned so as to allow the painting container to be mounted on a ladder. In one embodiment, the container is adapted to receive a liner and in one embodiment, the liner can be configured to have a roller tray to permit use of the container with roller application of paint or liquid to a surface. In another embodiment, the container is dimensioned so as to fit on a painting supply container to permit the container to reseal a painting supply container.

PAS 503745.1

CLV PAS559699.1-* -04/7/04 2:02 PM